

CHAPTER XVII.

FRAGMENTA GENEALOGICA.

The following fragments are considered to be worthy of record in a chapter to be devoted to items, some of which may, at some future date, help members of the Janson family to trace their descent to one of the names on the large printed pedigree in this volume.

(Copy for Gazette.)

Charles II. State Papers. Domestic Series.

1663, March 30th.—Jonas Shish to Sam. Pepys. Repair of the Sortings. If Henry Janson be entered again in the service, he promises to be willing and diligent.

1649, 31st March.—John Easment, West Carmel; Rob. Janson, Stoke-under-Hamden; both Co. Somerset.

Information that Easment left home, went to Sherborne Castle, Co. Dorset, and encouraged men to steal horses from the Parliament Forces under Major Sydenham.

May 12th.—Information that JANSON acknowledges that he was in arms for the King's party, being a trooper under Captain Geo. Strode, also that he rode into Stoke with his sword drawn, and asked if there were any Roundheaded rogues in the town, and swore, if he found any, he would hew them in pieces.

May 18th.—County Commissioners to take examination in both cases, and secure their estates in case of delinquency.

1662, November 27th.—Captain James Lambert, to the Navy Commissioners. Recommends EDWARD JANSON to be Mate in the Duke's yacht, the Ann.

1673, November 13th.—Commission to John Janson to be Quartermaster and Marshall to the Earl of Tyrone's Regiment.
